Suffolk County Legislature Presiding Officer William J. Lindsay recently congratulated the Brinkmann family on the Grand Opening of their newest True Value Hardware store in Holbrook.

The Brinkmann's opened their first small hardware store in Sayville in 1976, and the family now owns seven stores on Long Island, consisting of more than fifty employees. The family owned business currently consists of three True Value Hardware stores in Sayville, Blue Point and Holbrook, and four Benjamin Moore Paint stores in Sayville, Miller Place, Jamesport and Farmingdale. The new store in Holbrook combines an existing Brinkmann-owned paint store with a new True Value Hardware store.

"The Brinkmann's have been instrumental in the Sayville community as active members of the Rotary Club, Village Improvement Society and the Chamber of Commerce," said Presiding Officer Lindsay. "I look forward to working with the Brinkmann family in order to improve our local business community and make Holbrook a great place to live, work and shop."
